Letter of Recommendation for Herdís María Sigurðadóttir

I am teaching Computer Science as a Assistant Professor at Reykjavik University since 2015. Before this, I have taught Computer Science at the Freie Universität Berlin since 2009.

Ms Herdís María Sigurðadóttir participated in my class "Computer Networks" in Fall 2015. She has been a dedicated student, well organized and highly ambitious. Her performance in the class has been remarkably consistent and excellent all the time. She finished the class among in the top 10% of the students.

She appears to be a very good programmer. All her programming assignments (a Trivial File Transport Protocol server, a simple Web Server, and a secure Messaging System using Secure Socket Layer for encrypted communication) have been awarded a grade with distinction. The programming assignments were group projects, in which she performed exceptionally well. She was valued by her team mates.

Her interests are in all kinds of programming. She is skilled in system-level programming. She is curious about all areas of mathematics and computer science.

She is a fast learner and she is independent. I am confident that she will be a valuable member of your company. I can wholeheartedly recommend her.

Signed,
